

2015 JUG wine

Pianetta Vineyards and Winery began with the cultivation of a parcel of land in the Indian Valley area of San Miguel purchased by John Pianetta in 1995. Over the next several years John and his daughter Caitlin have created an estate vineyard and boutique winery to highlight the flavors and bold characteristics in the Southern Monterey and Paso Robles AVAs. The JUG WINE program started off as a "happy accident" but has quickly become one of the top selling wines at the tasting room and select stores.... Pianetta's take on "Unpretentious Quality"

WINEMAKER NOTES

-Dried blackberry and mild pepper on the nose. Savory herb over the palate. Soft acid and silky tannin with just enough spice to make this medium bodied wine your dinner go to.

VINTAGE NOTES

- 2015 was a very challenging growing year on the central coast. We started of course with another year of below average rainfall, adding yet another year to our ongoing draught conditions. A late freeze during spring caused a difficult start to the growing year and then a hot and dry May caused uneven bloom and cluster development. Overall these conditions set us up for below average yields and a lot uneven quality in the vineyards, however we were able to thread the needle and find some good fruit. Our overall production in 2015 was low, but we were able to consolidate enough quality fruit to put together our favorite blend, the JUG wine.
